Creation Evidence Expo

As a Christian School, we students get many opportunities that others may not. One such example is the Creation Evidence Expo that the Fifth and Sixth graders got to visit on the 28th of September at Crossroads Bible College in Indianapolis. Not only did they get much treasured time off of regular school, but they got the invaluable ability to see that there are beliefs besides Christianity and why we hold our beliefs to be true. Even seeing that there are credible views outside of your own is a cherished gift too much neglected in many schools nationwide. The elementary students enjoyed the time immensely.

A main part of this year's expo was disproving evolution by evidence of dinosaurs, from the T-rex to the triceratops. They discussed this and many other such proofs more in depth than could be written here. The Expo people also gave away many prizes which three of our students got. The school also got a DVD series called "The Rocks Cry Out".

Our hope with such trips is for HHCS students to grow in knowledge, reason, and ultimately the Lord. We must be preparing a generation to defend not only Christian beliefs, but one that can show why we should believe those ancient writings to begin with. The Creation Evidence Expo is one of the many ways we do that, but it's not just the school's job. All believers must help to "train up a child in the way he should go" that the light of our Lord will only grow by His glory through us.

Teacher Spotlight Results!

Last week we gave some unknown facts about one faculty member here at Heritage Hall. The goal was to guess who this faculty member was and somebody did just that! Our winner for this week is Junior, Anna Childs, with her guess of Mr. Keith Willis!

Be Our Friends!

Who is Our Administrator?

He may not be who you think...

Over the last year and several months, while Mr. Stein has been the new administrator, a curious rumor has emerged. Some relegate it to mere happenstance and others claim it as immovable truth. The Communications team will not, however, take sides on the issue until we have flushed out every fact and examined every facet of the issue. The debated claim being that Mr. Stein is Winnie the Pooh. Hear me out, dear reader, and I will explain it crystal clear.

No person would make the extraordinary claim that our administrator is the actual Winnie the Pooh in the flesh, it is simply that certain characteristics and suspicious connections make it a thing of mystery. These aforementioned characteristics are as follows: his continual jovial demeanor, has anyone not seen him happy during a day; some have heard him mutter "Oh bother" under his breath, this being a common line of Winnie the Pooh; and simply his look is quite a match, just picture the two side by side.

While these connecting clues are of value, the HHCS Communication class has dug up some more revealing evidences. Stein, in German, means rock. We found this rather interesting as one of Pooh's grand adventures is to Upside Down Rock. Also, Miss Sigo, the Administrative Assistant, reported that the door to Mr. Stein's office is often covered with a sticky, golden resin. Lastly, our dear administrator's birthday is December 25, 1954, which is exactly two years and one week before A. A. Milne, the author of Winnie the Pooh, died. You may think that's too great a time gap to matter, but, think again. The Pawukon calendar from Bali, has only 210 days in a year; daylight saving time was not instituted until 1908. These two combined facts, make up the time gap to the day.

In conclusion, the Communication class has drawn some convincing parallels between Mr. Stein and Winnie the Pooh; unfortunately, no conclusive evidence could be found. While we are willing to accept any new developments, it is unlikely. So the status quo will remain, Mr. Stein will continue to administrate, and we will continue to respect and listen to him.
